PREFACE BY LEWIS CASS WELDIN (336)

This record has been over 50 years in preparation. We became interested in finding out the relation of the various families of the name of Weldin living in our vicinity when quite a young man. There were three or four branches of the family who were not aware that they were related at all. Those intermarrying were sure they were no relation to each other whatever. This aroused our curiosity. Repeated inquiries of the older members seemed to give little reliable information. We procured a small blank book and started out in earnest to record all names and facts readily obtainable. This book made in pencil was the original of the present record. Coming upon this little record among some old papers, at least twenty years after it was made, we were inspired to continue the work. From that time to the present the work has never been lost sight of, although pursued at intervals sometimes of years. We have become almost a genealogist by its pursuit and have become familiar with much of the Colonial history of Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. We have examined many volumes of records, so readily reached in recent years, and enlisted many more expert than ourself in the search for data. Very exhaustive examinations of county records, Friends Meeting records and published genealogies of connected and related families in many states have been made at our request and expense.

Colonial archives and government documents available have been read and compared, and every clue to a lost member diligently followed up. This work, to us, has been very interesting and sometimes, amusing as well. We have had many surprises and by the voluminous correspondence made many friends. It has been a great pleasure to re-unite relatives separated for years and who were often under the impression that the unknown had passed away in a distant state. We are grateful for the voluntary help of many correspondents and have not hesitated to copy such data as was found in the genealogies of other families. The Smedley Genealogy; the Talley History and Genealogy; the collection of Miss Hanna R. Weldin; the Cope and Futhy History of Chester County; the Genealogy of the Stern Family, and many others. Many of these publications furnished but little we could use but to all we acknowledge indebtedness. We cannot mention personally the dozens of descendants who have gone to great trouble and some expense to answer our repeated inquiries. No record could be made without the co-operation of those interested.

This record relates to the descendants of two brothers, Jacob and Ely Weldin (ing).

The first authentic records that we have found referring to these brothers is in the minutes of the "New Ark Mo. Meeting of Friends". There we find this note dated seventh month, eighth, 1725, "Jacob Welding requests a certificate in behalf of his brother, Ely Welding, to Bi-Berry Mo. M't'g." This date is probably not correct as Ely seems to have married by permission of Abbington M. M't'g. in 1721. Also Ely and his wife obtained a certificate from Abbington to Buckingham in 1723. In the year 1721, Joseph Elly, a scrivener of Salem N.J. bequeathed all his property to his loving kinsman, Jacob Welding, of Rockland Manor. In the year 1722, Jacob Weldin received a deed from Thomas Hollingsworth for a tract of two hundred acres of land on Shell Pot Creek in Rockland Manor, now Brandywine Hundred, Delaware. These give the permanent location and earliest dates referring to the two brothers whose descendants we propose to trace.

The Friends' records in Delaware give Welding as the recorded form. We have a copy, however, of a deed made by Jacob in 1760, the signature to which shows no "g" at the end. The descendants of Jacob have never used the "g" ending, while the descendants of Eli have always retained the final "g".

Jacob and Eli were blacksmiths by trade as were many of their descendants. Beginning with the village where Eli had his shop in Bucks County, Pa., many towns have been named by them in many states of the Union. These names of towns and Post Offices are now uniformly spelled Weldon but this is a manifest injustice to the Weldins and Weldings of this family who founded many of them. This, our records shew, especially in the western states.

There was an extensive emigration to Ohio and farther West from Delaware by the descendants of Jacob about the year 1818 or perhaps a little earlier. We also find that the succeeding generations kept moving as the country settled up and are now resident in every state to and including California.

As handed down to us of the Rockland Manor branch, the family name is spelled Weldin and has been so spelled for two hundred years. We are aware, however, that a great variety of ways of spelling the name have been and are yet in use among the related branches.

The origin of the name is Norman *, and the earliest records are said to have many references to it. In the time of William, the Conqueror, as the English records show, Bertramus de Weltdene was the head of the family. We are in possession of a copy of a genealogical chart for fifteen generations made in 1685 which shows several branches of the original de Weltdenes, who, holding various positions at the English Court, saw fit to change the spelling of the name, although we have no doubt whatever but that the pronunciation has always been the same. This we may infer from the motto's "Bein Fait" and "Bona Faat" used at various times. In this chart we see the oldest branch retaining the "t" and dropping the final "e" so that at last we have

* British Family Names - Henry Barber.

Weltden. In the second branch we find the "h" dropped and finally the spelling Weldin used. Another branch used Weldon, Welden, Weldin by turns and the youngest branch, like the oldest, uses Weltden. This chart reaches to 1685, a date at which most of the early settlements in Delaware, Virginia and New York, and even Pennsylvania had been founded. Several emigrants with names identical with those in the chart arrived from England and Wales. We might therefore expect to find that the name appears in America exactly as used in the old country. Instead, however, we find the most bewildering changes, even among brothers and cousins; yet all American families claiming that a Weldin is a Weldin no matter how his name is spelled.

We are unable to trace our branch farther back than the two brothers, Jacob and Ely, who were both blacksmiths, born or settling in Rockland Manor in New Castle Co., Delaware, about the year 1700. They were Quakers and their names appear as Welding in the Friends' Records.

ORIGINAL EMIGRANT

The Founder, we think, Isaac Wheelden of Sahgoost Derbingshire, Wales, joined his fortunes with those who followed William Penn into the wooded wilderness of Pennsylvania. He was a Quaker, and was the first to purchase one thirty-second interest in 5000 acres in the Welsh Barony from the original owners, John ap John and Thomas Wynne, his countrymen, who had their right from Penn.

This John ap John was spoken of by his neighbors as a man of great integrity and devotion to the Society of Friends. Isaac had surveyed to him as his part of the property, two hundred acres of land along Darby Creek, then Chester, now Delaware County, at the location of the cotton mills known as Glenwood and Clifton.

He seems to have lived in Philadelphia, probably arriving there in the ship "Lyon" which brought the Welsh emigrants in 1682. This was at the time Penn himself and his Quaker followers were coming to Penn's new acquisition of the West side of the Delaware. About thirty vessels arrived in that year, bringing many Friends from England, Wales and Ireland, to enjoy the freedom of the new land and escape the persecutions of the old.

Isaac was described in the deed to him as a glover, and in a deed ten years later, as a skinner, so that we may presume that he was a fur and skin merchant, this being the principal business of the early emigrants.

Letters of attorneys, by which he was empowered to manage and sell the interests of others who, it is presumed, owned parts in the ap John and other tracts but did not leave their own country at all, are on record. In this way, many interests were transferred even before a regular surveyed location was assigned to them.

In 1684, we find Isaac bought a tract of land of 220 acres situated on the west side of the Delaware river and east side of a branch of Blackbird Creek in New Castle County, Delaware. This tract of land was called "Dalton" following the custom of the times of giving a name to every plantation. We regret this custom has not continued as a force in holding the descendants to the old home and a rallying center for the future generations. This particular home property was in Appaquinamink Hundred. Here Isaac seems to have made his home at last and here his descendants are still to be found. We find in a deed to Samuel Levis of a part of the original Darby Creek tract that he is described as of New Castle County, Delaware.

In 1695 we find him as an attorney making a deed in Delaware but described as of Cape May County, New Jersey. Again in two or three documents recorded in Philadelphia in 1687 we find him called a citizen of that town; also in 1695 the year in which his residence is given as Cape May County, New Jersey, we find in that county records of the purchase of 150 acres of land by Joseph Willdin (probably his son or nephew), (This Joseph is the progenitor of all the C.M. Co. Wheelbins.) from the agents of Dr. Cox of the West Jersey Society. We presume, therefore, that Isaac lived in Philadelphia from 1681 to about 1688 as we find him a member of Penn's Council for New Castle County, in 1689. Then he seems to have lived for a few years in New Jersey about 1695 but in 1699 we find his will recorded in New Castle County, Delaware files and the same year a deed made by his executors, Joseph Wheelbin (probably a son) and William Robinson, both of Appaquinamink Hundred. So that he, no doubt, died in that year in Delaware.

Isaac, therefore, lived in America from 1682 to 1699, a term of seventeen years, in which he was an active and prominent citizen, serving as a member of the government body, making many sales for others and handling hundreds of acres of low priced forest land as shown by the records of three counties.

1700

Isaac having died seems, as far as our records show, to have left but one son, Joseph, who, with William Robinson, settled the estate. The name of Robinson was prominent in Colonial days and was often connected with that of our own family.

The next date, 1721, is of the will of Joseph Wheelbin, described as of Duck Creek. He left a widow named Bridget and four sons, Isaac, Joseph and John and Jacob. Of this Isaac we know but little. He seems to have remained near his father's home, probably occupying the home place willed to him by his mother. His own will filed in 1746 mentions his wife, Anna, and sons, Joseph, William and Abraham. John's will filed in 1767 mentions his sons, John, James, and Joseph and grandson, William Shaw. In 1781, the will of Joseph filed gives his wife's name as Sarah and daughters, Elida and Elizabeth. John also is accounted for. This Joseph, no doubt of a later generation than the son of Joseph of 1721. Therefore, we have not accounted for Joseph of 1721 nor his brother Jacob.

These brothers born about 1700 or possibly a little earlier came into their property in February, 1721, or within the year following that date. On Nov. 20, 1722, Jacob of our record, received a deed for 200 acres of land formerly patented to Thomas Hollingsworth on Turkey Run in Brandywine Hundred, Delaware. Also in 1718, a Joseph appears as a witness at Chester Mo. meeting. One John also figures as a member of the Friends' Meeting and in the tax lists of Chester County, Pennsylvania, 1722 to 1727. So that it seems to us that this Joseph and John were sons of Joseph who made his will in 1721.

The Friends' records show that our Jacob, who had a deed from Hollingsworth in 1722 had a brother Ely named, no doubt, from Joseph Ely who made Jacob Welding his heir. We have no other mention of this Ely in Delaware although it is an easy matter to trace his life afterward by means of the Friends' records in Bucks Co. Pa.

Tradition connects these Weldins, Wheeldon and Whilldon and they are accounted as of the same origin.

OTHER EMIGRANTS

The old Norman name seems to have had many representatives scattered over England, Ireland and Wales, at the time that the tide of emigration set toward America. They were among the earliest to join the colonies. There must have been many original emigrants rather than one or even the traditional three brothers. The early members seem to have formed at least four groups located respectively in Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York and along the coast of Connecticut and Massachusetts. The spelling of the name is very confusing although the pronunciation seems to have been the same. This is indicated by the tendency of non-members to use Weldon. Many of the pioneer settlers, even in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, seem to have shown their independence by using their own taste in selecting one of the various ways of spelling the name then in use. The two great lines of migration taken by the early settlers in moving westward are indicated in the history of the travels of the members of this family. Northward, say from Eastern New York to Connecticut or Massachusetts; then Westward by Northern New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, leaving representatives at every resting place. Or South, say from Philadelphia or Virginia or Maryland or the Carolinas, then Northwestward to West Virginia, Western Pennsylvania and thence to Central Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and on to the Pacific.

We have corresponded with many people with the name or similar names, often in this way finding again a lost trace of some of the wanderers. Taking these names from directories or wherever an address could be obtained we have, of course, reached many not connected with the branch of the great family which we are tracing.

We have thought best to preserve some of these facts for the interest they possess as history and also hoping that in time they may help some other geneologist.

The following are a few historic notes and extracts from our correspondence.

- 1610-1630 Mrs. Ida M. (Weldon) Fulmer of Cleveland, Ohio, writes that her ancestors are understood to have settled first in New Amsterdam (New York) between 1610 and 1630. They moved to the new settlements on the coast of Connecticut and Massachusetts and were also among the Yankees who afterward moved to the then West in New York state. A William Weldon, her ancestor, settling in the Mohawk Valley and there marrying a Miss Walradt, a descendant of the Holland emigrants. These Weldens scattered over that part of New York and some went to Northern Pennsylvania and Ohio. They suppose the original emigrants to have been English or Irish.
- 1619 Hotten's "Early Emigrant Ancestors; 1624" gives, in a list of muster rolls of College lands, that Anthony Weltden arrived in the ship "Society of Boston" in 1619 and that William Weldon came in the ship Bona Nova.
- 1620 In the Plymouth Colony, Governor Giles Hopkins married Catharine Wheildon; Hannah, daughter of Capt. John Gorham of the Mayflower Colonists married a Wheelding, at Barnstable, New York, where her parents were then living after they returned to America. Hannah and her husband settled in Cape May County, New Jersey, and are recognized as the ancestors of the Whilldins of New Jersey.
- 1630 In "Genealogies and Estates of Charleston, Massachusetts" by Wyman, we find that Capt. Robert Weldon died of consumption Feb 16, 1630.
- Savage's "Genealogical Dictionary" gives the name of Elizabeth, widow of Capt. Robert Weldon, among the members of one of the early churches in Massachusetts in 1630, also Henry Whelding, who may be the father or brother of Catharine who married in 1630 to Giles Hopkins.
- 1675 Rev. John Weldon, minister of Parish St. Mary, Newington, County Surry, England, staying in Virginia, was made guardian for Sarah, daughter of Peter Efford of York County. She afterward married his son Samuel in London and they came to James City in 1675, York County. Records noted in "Wm. and Mary Quarterly, Vol. 6, PP. 121".

- 1719 A descendant of Samuel Weldon (Benjamin) served on the Grand Jury in 1719. From this branch came many of the Weldons of the South and Southeast. They were in both armies in the War of the Rebellion and several are at present in the Government employ. Many towns and Post-offices have derived their names from descendants of Virginia Weldons who were pioneers in early settlements.
- 1682 Isaac Wheeldon, glover, of Sancoost, Wales, bought in 1681, a one thirty-second share in 5000 acres of land to be laid off in the Welsh tract or barony arranged for by William Penn. This was one of the earliest sales and two hundred acres were surveyed for him on Darby Creek, now in Darby Township, Delaware County, Pennsylvania. Isaac arrived in 1682 and resided in Philadelphia, also in Delaware and at one time in Cape May County, New Jersey. He had a tract of land at Appaquinamink Hundred, N.C. County, Delaware, and died in Delaware in 1699. He was the ancestor of some of the Delaware Weldins, if not of the New Jersey Whildins, also.
- 1695 Joseph Whilldin bought 150 acres of land in Cape May County, N.J. of the agent of Dr. Cox and the West Jersey Society.
- 1710 Dr. F. Stanford Welden writes that his ancestor of four or five generations back was Jonathan Wheldon who settled on New Haven, Conn. Another ancestor, Jonathan Wheldon, was Lieutenant in the Continentals and one of his ancestors came to Long Island where the line is represented by the Doctor who is in dental practice in Brooklyn.
- 1800 S.G. Whelden, Providence, Rhode Island, says his father, James and Uncle Benjamin Whelden came to Massachusetts from Wales about one hundred years ago; (probably much earlier).
- E.O. Weldin of Chicago, La wn, Ill., says his people have resided many years in Herkemer and Oneda Counties, New York, and are of English origin. Miss Gertrude Welden of St. Louis, Missouri, writes that her father, Joseph G. was born in Syracuse, New York, and that her grandfather, Thomas, came from England. She says that the name used to be spelled Weldin. Arthur Weldon, Chippaway Falls, N.Y. says his father's name was Stephen and that he came from Liverpool.
- 1883 James T. Welding of New York City came from Blackburn, Lancashire, England, fifteen years ago (1908) where his brothers and sisters still live.

Jas. S. Weldon, Post Master, St. Clair, Mo. writes that his grandfather, Thomas, was born near Weldon, N.C., He removed to South Carolina about 1812 and later to Sangamon Co., Ill. A son moved to Pike Co. Indiana.

James M. Weldon, Racine, Ohio, writes that his father John, was born in the eastern part of Old Virginia. His grandfather, Edward, moved to Washington, Pennsylvania, about 1747 and the family afterwards moved to Point Pleasant, now West Virginia and then to Chester, Ohio, and then to Racine. They were Irish or Scotch Irish. This is a fair illustration of the movements of the descendants of the early emigrants and shows how they scattered out to occupy the new country. These are descendants of several emigrants.

Laura H. Nelson, 10 N. Locust St., Oxford, Ohio, writes that her Great Grandmother, Ann Weldon, B. 1793 in Del., m. Wm. Fields (1815?). Had da. Mary b. 1816, son Allen b. 1819, also Daniel Weldon Fields, Jane, Benjamin, Martha and Isabella, which names she says repeat through the generations.

Jacob Weldin (2) 1700, resided on a farm in Brandywine Hundred, New Castle Co. Del. He was a blacksmith by trade, owned 200 acres of upland and a tract of marsh land on Cherry Island. He was an active member of the Friends Meeting at Newark, which was near by. The plain tomb stones in the old burying ground give no names nor dates to help us to know his wife's name of the dates usually so recorded.

There were probably several daughters as the records of the old Swede's Church at Wilmington, Del. show the marriages of Mary, Elizabeth, Eliza, Jeannette and two Sarahs, between 1748 and 1752 who may have been sisters and cousins of Isaac and Joseph.

Ely Welding (3) married Elizabeth Beal, daughter of Wm. Beal, at that time a citizen of Upper Dublin, by Friends ceremony Nov. 27, 1721. June 23, 1723, they received a certificate to Buckingham Monthly Meeting, Bucks County, Penna.

As we have seen in the history of his brother Joseph, Ely was a Friend, a blacksmith and was a resident of Weldon, a small town near Abbington, Bucks County, Penna. He married Elizabeth Beal as shown in the Abbington Monthly Meeting minutes, 1st of 10th Mo. 1721 and took a certificate of removal to Buckingham Monthly meeting, 4 Mo. 1723. The village and post office are no doubt named for him, although the post office department has made a uniform way of spelling for all the Weldon post offices. The spelling is "Welding" on the Friends records. This Bucks County branch has always used the final "g" long ago dropped by all the Delaware Weldins. They had one son, John Welding (6) b. 1722 d. 1760, who bought a tract of 172 1/2 acres of land in Buckingham Township, where he resided until his death in June 1771. He was an active member of the Friends Meeting and served in many important positions. Elizabeth died May 1773.

THIRD GENERATION

Isaac Weldin (4). We find no record of his wife's name. + It is probably given in the New Ark Friends records as he seems to have adhered to the Quakers. These records are not indexed. His will was recorded Sept. 5, 1788. He lived near the old home place.

Of the four daughters; ^(see below) Elizabeth, Margaret, Sarah, and Mary, very little is known to us. From the Old Swede's Church records we learn that Elizabeth married Foster. Margaret, John Kinsman, and Sarah, John Smith. We have no record of Mary. The Smiths joined the party who went west about 1818, and of whom we are yet unable to learn the history. The sons, George, Eli, and Jacob, and daughter Elizabeth settled near the old home. These people seem to have left the Friends Society about or after the meetings were removed from New Ark 1708.

Their names appearing on the Swede's Church records as early as 1747, and in 1734, in Christ Church, Philadelphia.

+ There is a record in Old Swede's Church of the marriage of Isaac Welding and Sarah Dearborn, Dec. 27, 1766. Which may be a second marriage of this Isaac. He mentions his wife in his will in 1788.

Joseph Weldin (5) m. Aug. 2, 1751, Margaret Robinson, daughter of George Robinson and grand-daughter of Valentine Hollingsworth, Emigrant. She was born 1731. He died 1783. Joseph was a saddler by trade. He owned and resided on a farm near the family home. He also received from his father the tract of marsh land bought of Hollingsworth. Letters of administration were issued to his widow Margaret Nov. 30, 1783.

He was one of the proprietors of West Jersey, owning a twelfth interest therein. He was a chemist of wealth and education. John and Hannah (Watson) Welding first settled upon a farm in Buckingham Twp., Bucks Co., near his parents, but removed to Chesterfield, N.J. in 1788. They were Friends and the Friends records of Chesterfield and Buckingham contain their names and those of their children.

FOURTH GENERATION

George Weldin (8) m. Feb. 27, 1781, Elizabeth Allmond, daughter of John Allmond, Sr., (sister of Mary who married his brother Jacob, at the old Swede's Church and on the same day) - Elizabeth was born in 1755 and lived to be 66 years of age. She died Oct. 27, 1821, surviving her husband 25 years. She did not remarry. See biography of George, Appendix P.

Isabella Weldin (9) m. Sept. 14, 1786, Daniel Sharpley. This marriage is recorded in the Old Swede's Church as is the baptism of their son Daniel, Jr. Mr. Sharpley lived but a few years after their marriage. Isabella married, about 1790, Jacob Smith, a widower, son of Wm. (and Ann) who died about 1800. He was born Jan. 3, 1757 and died May 17, 1844. Mr. Smith, like many of his relatives took the side of the Mother Country in the troubles of the revolution and found it desirable to remove to Canada during the war. While there, his first wife died after having a son - John(?). On his return to Penna., he married Isabella, and continued to reside on his property in Delaware County near Elam, P.O. Pa.

Jacob was a prominent citizen of the Hundred and resided on the original tract of land that his grandfather Jacob bought from Thos. Hollingsworth, the emigrant. The confidence of his neighbors is shown in the number of estates left to his administration. There is a stone in the front gable of the Shellpot public school bearing the simple inscription "Jacob Weldin". Jacob and Mary lived to a ripe old age and their memory lingers in the traditions and sayings of their descendants contributing no little to the character and respectability of the succeeding generations.

Jacob Weldin (16) m. Jane ----- . He learned the carpenter's trade and made his residence in North Oxford Twp. Chester Co. Pa. Here he proposed and the Chester County records show that he purchased and sold several tracts of land and when his estate was settled in July 1817, his son-in-law, Wm. Harper, gave security to the amount of 1300 pounds English, or about $6500.00 in our money. This Jacob became separated from his people as did so many others about this time and as he had no male descendants to perpetuate the name, we are dependent upon the County records for the only facts obtainable.

FIFTH GENERATION

Mary Weldin (26) m. Feb. 9, 1805, Thomas Talley, b. May 5, 1772. d. Jan. 9, 1859. His descendants claim that he was a soldier in the war of 1812. His name appears as Ensign on the "Wasp". He resided originally on the Faulk Road, Brandywine Hundred, Del. Later (about 1800) he owned and resided upon a farm on Shellpot Creek, in the same Hundred, some distance from the Pike. This couple were remarkable for their physical health and stature, their sturdy character, and religious spirit; and were the progenitors of a sturdy and persistent family. Their history and geneology is very completely portrayed by one of the grandsons, George A. Talley, who published the Talley history and geneology, in 1899.

GEORGE EDMUND WELDIN (117) m. Rachel Williams, sister of Amy, whom his brother Lewis (109) married. She was born May 18, 1834 and died March 21, 1895. George E. learned the bricklaying trade with Capt. Kennerly and was an excellent workman, plying his trade in many cities. Following the season for work of this kind he had reached New Orleans, La, when he was overtaken and carried away by the excitement attending the report of the discovery of gold in California. He became a "Forty-Niner" and crossed the Isthmus with the greatest difficulty. In the new country he spent about five years, with varying success, and finally returned to claim his bride. As a truck and small fruit farmer he spent several years in the vicinity of Wilmington.
He purchased a tract of land in the outskirts of the City which added much to his prosperity as the City developed. In later life he worked at his loved trade and for some years was a trusted foreman at the Edgemoor Steel Works. It was at Edgemoor that Rachel died at the age of 61 years. He afterward married Caroline French. There were no children of this marriage.

MAURICE SAVILLE TUCKER (408) m. June 4, 1889, Laura V. Jones. Captain Tucker was born at Forest Hill, Md. He ran away from home when only eleven years old and went to sea on the schooner James A. Garfield, and after several voyages to the West Indies was sent home sick. To keep him from the "Call of the Sea" he was sent at fourteen to his sister's who lived in Center County, Penna. He was apprenticed to the iron moulding trade. After three years, the foundry closed and he went home again for over a year. Then yielding to the influence of the sea, he joined the S.W. Bruno, a small steamer plying between Baltimore and New York. He sailed on various vessels and became a captain. He has been captain of several steamboats on the Chesapeake and Delaware bays, New York waters, the Great Lakes, and the St. Lawrence river. He is now Captain of one of the Philadelphia and Reading Ferry boats plying between Camden and Philadelphia. The Captain has purchased a residence in West Philadelphia, and his parents make their home with him.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES

GEORGE WELDIN (8) by L.C.W. (336)

George, son of Isaac (4) was born in Brandywine Hundred, Del., December 29, 1753 and lived to be forty-three years of age. He is said to have died suddenly of pneumonia contracted by exposure. He was a very large man of great strength and activity. He married, February 27, 1781, Elizabeth, daughter of John Almond, Sr., who was a prominent citizen of the Hundred. The record of this marriage, as well as that of his brother Jacob, with Mary, sister of Elizabeth, which bears the same date, is found in the archives of Old Swede's Church. This is probably the Jacob who afterwards became a pew holder.

George lived on a farm near the Marsh Road and on the (at that time) "King's Highway". When the Philadelphia Pike was opened, this part of the "King's Highway" was abandoned and is now a part of the Dupont farm near Edgemoor, Del. We understand he had a shop, but do not know his trade. It was probably saddlery. He was a farmer also. At the time of his death, there were two children, Mary, aged 13, and John, aged 8 years.

NOTE: From Hannah R. Weldin (222)

It is said that on the occasion of the double wedding of their daughters, the Almonds gave a great dinner. The family was considered among the 400 of the neighborhood and the dinner was a great affair. A cup of coffee was in some way spilled over one of the young ladies, when the mother is said to have exclaimed in her distress, "Oh! My beautiful daughter"! The Almonds are understood to have been Tories. The Hessian soldiers were encamped near the Almond home and the Colonel quartered in their house is said to have lived very well. To show his good will, he caused the Hessians to work upon the new mill race that Mr. Almond was constructing on the Shellpot Creek. This was made the occasion for a great fete, the neighbors all assisting, and the host supplying unlimited good cheer. To show his agility, one of the sons of Jacob Weldin (12) John A. Weldin, performed the feat of hopping the length of a 22 ft. plank stretched across the race, mounted with both feet upon the top of a spade.

George was a member of Captain Paul Ralston's Company of Western District of Brandywine Hundred. Re-enrolled March 7, 1778 (See page 756, Vol. 2, Archives of Delaware).

GEORGE WELDIN

He also signed voucher for pay April 5, 1785. The farm at Penny Hill, afterward owned by John (27) was willed to him by his mother's aunt, being inherited by her from John Almond.

George's will was proven January 19, 1797, Jacob Weldin was administrator and John Almond surety.

John, son of George (8) and Elizabeth (Almond) Weldin, was born in Brandywine Hundred, Del., July 27, 1788, and lived to be seventy-nine years of age. We find the record of his birth and baptism in the record of the Old Swede's Lutheran Church in Wilmington. From these, and other records, and the fact that Jacob Weldin was a pew holder in 1806, we infer that the family recognized this as their church. His father died when John was but eight years old. He was apprenticed to his uncle, Mr. Smith, and learned the trade of wheelwright. He grew to be a very strong and healthy young man but was never so tall nor so heavy as his father and some of his sons. At the age of nineteen, he married Rebecca Miller, also nineteen, daughter of Philip and Mary (Smith) Miller who resided near the State line on the Wilmington and West Chester Pike. Philip Miller was an emigrant from Holland and a cooper by trade..

John established his shops at the intersection of the Marsh Road with the Philadelphia Pike on Penny Hill, about three miles North of Wilmington. He appears to have done a prosperous business. He inherited from his father-in-law, the farm adjoining, and erected a substantial stone house and large barn. Like most of the residents along the river, he engaged in shad fishing in its season, having several boats' crews employed. The products of the farm were added to by those of several acres of river marsh. He was a member of the Mt. Pleasant Methodist Church and served as Class Leader and official member. He was genial and naturally sociable, and made many friends. John and Rebecca were the parents of a large family, several of whom married in their turn and settled in the neighborhood. All were well-to-do and useful citizens.

He retired from active work at the age of 65, and removed to small place adjoining the "Home Place". At 81, he was in good health, when a fall on the stairs of his home caused his death.

Jacob S., son of John (27) and Rebecca (Miller) Weldin was born March 11, 1813, died Jan. 4, 1885.

He was the oldest son to reach manhood, as his brother George M. died at the age of fifteen years. Jacob learned the wheelwright trade and became an expert workman. He, however, early decided that the cross-road shop could not satisfy his yearning for a larger and more satisfactory field of effort. At the age of twenty-nine he married Ann E., daughter of William R. (59) and Sarah (Stern) Weldin, who was nine years his junior. She was a descendant of Joseph, (5), of this record, as he was a descendant of Isaac (4).

Jacob then moved to Wilmington, and entered the grocery business. The business prospered and in time, as his means permitted, he invested in other enterprises. He owned an interest in several vessels in the coastwise trade. At one time he was president of a company owning quite a number of vessels. He was interested in a prosperous lumber company and various enterprises tending to develop the business of the city. Later, retiring from all active business, he erected a commodious dwelling on Jackson Street where he spent the remaining days of an active and useful life. Jacob was a genial and pleasant companion and the writer, although but a young man at the time, spent many pleasant hours in his company and held Uncle Jacob in high esteem and greatest respect. His whole life was a power for good to those who knew him, and his influence will last many years with those whom his life touched.

Religion was to him a serious and vital matter. He early joined the M.E. Church near his home, and in Wilmington, was a member of Old St. Paul's Church on Market St. He volunteered to be one of those who went out to found Scott M.E. Church, in a then undesirable location, but where he felt a great need called him. He was faithful to this weak and struggling organization, and served as official member and active worker to the end.

His means were liberally used in this and other laudable, useful and religious enterprises. To such lives we owe much and none may measure their value.

Ruth, daughter of Isaac Weldin (33), was born in Stark County, Ohio, Jan. 19, 1826. She married Isaac B. Arnold, Aug. 12, 1847. Their first residence was in Paris, Ohio. Afterwards, they lived in Salem, Ohio and Marshall, Ill., then again at Salem and finally settled at Bourbon, Indiana. Isaac Arnold learned the trade of cabinet maker and followed it for a number of years. He also worked at pattern making and is said to have made many patterns for fine machine castings. In Bourbon he went into the milling and lumber business. The fine timber of the district made it very desirable for this business. He prospered and the firm of Bramly and Arnold had a large and profitable trade. They also engaged in the hardware business. Isaac invested in the dry goods trade under the firm name of Arnold and Fischer.

All of these ventures were successful. He bought and sold many farms. Mr. Arnold retired from active business in 1873. He erected a fine dwelling in Bourbon, where he resided until his death in 1898. He was a broad minded, generous man, doing many kind acts and charitable deeds in a quiet way. Many of these only became known long afterwards. "He was a good man and helped me when I could not help myself", was afterwards and often said by those whom he so quietly befriended.

He was buried at Bourbon, Ruth (Weldin) Arnold at the time of this writing, is about eighty years old, in good health, erect and active as a much younger lady might be. In fine weather she rides a great deal which no doubt tends to health. She and her daughter Nettie (Arnold) Davis live in the Arnold residence at Bourbon.

Lewis, son of John (27) and Rebecca (Miller) Weldin, was born Aug. 22, 1815 and lived to be sixty-three years of age. His boyhood days were spent on his father's farm and in the shop. The farm duties fell to his share, as Jacob, but two years his senior, and his father in the full vigor of life, were the mechanics with "Journeymen" to complete the artisan force. The boy saw much of out-door life and from a sickly youth he grew to be a very healthy and energetic man, being about six feet tall and later weighing 240 pounds, being one of the large men so common in the family

In the family councils it was decided that he should be a blacksmith, so that he was duly apprenticed to a Mr. Smith a relative who conducted a general blacksmithing business, and as a specialty manufactured axes. For some reason, Lewis served but a small part of the usual term, and was again free. He lost no time in getting into business for himself, and soon, provided with a horse and wagon, was engaged in trade, buying poultry or stock from his neighbors and attending the Philadelphia market twenty-two miles away to dispose of them. The condition of transportation and the demands of the markets were probably never so favorable for such a project; so that, feeling his way and filling the wants of the moment, he extended his business, and soon found his life work in catering to the wants of others. A few years found him with an extensive butchering business, requiring a double stall in the Wilmington market, and two or three wagons on the roads adjacent to his home. He was attracted by the gain to be made by renewing the producing value of farm land which, even then, had been allowed to run down by poor management. About thirty farms passed through his hands, and the advanced prices that purchasers were willing to give, were a substantial evidence of his judgment and the correctness of his theory.

At the age of twenty-five he married Amy Williams, daughter of Nathaniel and Sarah (Forwood) Williams of Delaware County, Pa., and took up his residence on a farm near his father's place. Here for about fourteen years he carried on the butchering business, developed the farm, cleared wood lots and engaged in other enterprises.

At about the age of thirty-six, he abandoned the meat trade altogether and occupied his time with the farm improvements, moving to the old Kendel farm at Bell View (Bellovue) Station, Del., where he spent about fourteen years. At this time, he was busy with many enterprises and bought and sold other properties. In 1856 he removed to a small place on Shellpot Hill, three miles from Wilmington, as, at this time, a chronic tendency to biliousness and torpid liver, a condition so common in the valley of the Delaware, became acute and the change to this higher locality seemed imperative. His experience in early life made him familiar with live stock, and all his life he was engaged in dealing in cattle. The meadow land near Newport, Del., attracted his attention in this connection, and he finally became owner of nearly seven hundred acres of this desirable grazing land and found congenial work in buying and selling hundreds of cattle which were fattened for the market there. He called this farm "The None Such".

During and after the Civil War, he did an extensive and very profitable business; buying in a single year, as many as nine hundred head of stock cattle, many of which were almost at once passed on to others to supply the constant demand. He spent much time and money upon this beautiful and productive tract of land, but could not, from his point of view foresee the wonderful advance of manufacturing and transportation and accompanying decline and distress of the landed interests. While we rejoice in the greatness of our country as a manufacturing center, we cannot but regret the passing of the era of prosperous cultivation of land. We are not sure that the country would not have been greater and its prosperity resting on a more firm basis if the war tariff and railroad booms, had not been allowed to revolutionize the ethics of our life and draw away our people from the land to the crowded centers to toil their lives and hopes away in soot and heat, and bring up unhealthy descendants in unfavorable conditions.

The subject of this sketch became a member of the M.E. Church when quite a boy. He was active in its service from his first association with it and was promptly authorized to conduct meetings in its interest. He was for many years, covering the active days of this career, a licensed exhorter, class leader and official of the church of which he was a member. He assisted both ^{with} his means and personal efforts in the erection of and payment for many churches in the district, and his home was always open to the active church workers. His daily Christian life in the midst of strenuous worldly affairs influenced almost everyone who lived with him. This was especially so with young people, many of whom were influenced to join his church and live as they saw others could do. Amy, his companion in his early struggles and sharer of his later success, died in the year '73. He afterwards married Mrs. Hester Forsay (nee Morgan) of Philadelphia, and himself died in 1878 at the age of sixty-three years.

Lewis Cass was born in an old stone house, on the outskirts of Wilmington, Del., overlooking the Delaware River. The writer has visited the place, which is now a modern home. Here he recalled many a quaint story of childish play on the river bank, and of the marvels washed ashore after floating down from the great cities upstream.

Lewis spent his youth upon the "Nonesuch", a great farm across the Christine Creek from Newport, Del. It consisted partly of marsh land, drained to the creek. The outlets of the drainage system were closed by tide gates, and the low-lying areas protected by dykes. Besides raising feed crops, the main activity was fattening cattle. It was an active life, in a sturdy, proud, and prosperous family. Cass, as he was called to distinguish him from his father, Lewis, took full part in the work and play. The latter consisted largely of riding, hunting, etc.

During this period of his life he formed the ground work of his character. The farm life gave him a strong body, a thorough grounding in agriculture, and a love of wild life. Throughout his life, he retained his love for fishing.

His father was a strong man, physically, and morally. A colorful character. Many anecdotes were told "the boys" about his feats of strength, his energy, his philanthropy, his tenderness, his deep religious convictions.

Cass's mother, seen through the eyes of a loving son, was a gentle lady, of character and intelligence. Unfortunately, none of the present generation ever saw our grandparents, but it appears to us that our subjects' moral and religious ideas must have come through them.

His devotion to honor was passionate. Small boys were left in no doubt that a fate far worse than death was deserved by any of our name who might disgrace us by stooping to mean and selfish acts, even in small matters.

Religion was to him the great fundamental fact of life. Morning and evening devotions at his bedside were never omitted, and family prayers before breakfast were attended by all. To the church he devoted much time and effort, even though his professional duties were most exacting and exhausting.

His family grew up in Wilkinsburg, a residential suburb of Pittsburgh, Pa. It was a time of rapid municipal growth. Noting the growing settlement of putlying communities, he organized Sunday Schools from time to time as he saw the need not as representing the congregation of which he was an official, but as an individual, quietly, without any announcement, except to the people concerned. As soon as each became a going concern, he slipped unnoticed out, leaving his name attached to none. Yet several flourishing churches are the sturdy oaks of his planting.

Where he acquired his great love for culture, is unknown to the writer. At the usual age for entering college, he refused his father's offer to send him to West Point, but later he was seized with a desire to learn.

He went to the Polytechnic College of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, from which he received the degree of Bachelor of Civil Engineering in 1875, having completed the course in much less than the prescribed time. While a student, he engaged in many extra-curricular activities. Gymnastics, work on the college publication, the study of pipe organ, theory of music, shorthand, etc. Yet he was so well grounded in the required subjects that years later, while on a long drive with his old preceptor, he astonished his companion by reciting perfectly certain Greek lessons.

He was a student all his life, reading Josephus and many Bible commentators, studying architecture as well as engineering, what is now called Art Appreciation, etc., and reading all the great literary classics he could. He was fascinated by Lord Chesterfield's letters to his son, and took them as a guide by which to perfect himself as a "gentleman".

After graduation he served as Engineer for his home village, Newport, Del., but soon secured a position with the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., which he served for 25 years, in offices in Pittsburgh, Altoona, and elsewhere. He was very active in designing and supervising construction of important bridges and buildings, as well as "maintenance of way" work. He directed the first operation of moving a bridge (of 5 spans) laterally to new piers in some 20 minutes, between trains, without interrupting schedules.

About 1800, having suffered a physical breakdown, he retired from the railroad, and entered practice as a Consulting Engineer. This practice was quite successful, but some years later, his health continuing to fail, he retired to a small farm at Chester Heights, Delaware County, Pa., which he successfully managed for some ten years. Even this finally proved beyond his strength, and the last two years of his life were spent in an apartment in West Chester, Pa.

His widow, Mary Eva Johnson of Johnson's Corner, Delaware County, Pa., survives. She was, and is (at 80) a tall, vivacious, capable woman of many talents, not the least of which are of the "social" type. She lives in summer in her cottage at Brandywine Summit Camp, upon the lands of her ancestral home, and spends the winter at St. Petersburg, Florida, surrounded by her many friends. She is the eldest daughter of Thomas Webster Johnson, a very successful farmer and teacher.

Lewis Cass was a Mason, and a member of the drill team of the Knights Templar. He was a very modest man. He never wore the Templar uniform at home, or upon the streets. He was the most lovable of men, as well as of the strongest. He prided himself upon a perfect self control. He could endure the greatest physical or mental suffering without giving the slightest sign.

His hobbies were fishing, genealogy (the present manuscript is the fruit of this) and the study of practical psychology. As a student of men, he acquired such a reputation, that various departments of the railroad with which he was not connected would send him prospective employees to interview.

He took a great interest in the young men who served under him, doing all he could to train them and to advance them in their professional careers. One met many of them in after years. All were eager to express their love and admiration for him, and their gratitude.

The writer appreciates this opportunity to pay tribute to one whom he has always regarded as a truly great man.

Isaac, eldest son of Eli (10) and Mary (Kellum) Weldin, daughter of Richard Kellum, was born about 1780, and lived to be about sixty-six years of age. He learned the trade of shoemaking and worked at his trade several years near Wilmington, Del., and afterwards with two brothers in Philadelphia. At about the age of 28, as near as we are able to decide, (the dates are not exact) he married Miss Bullock, niece of Thomas Bullock, a prominent hotel man of Wilmington.+ About this time, Isaac, with a number of others, mostly relatives, moved to the then far West, that is to Ohio. Thomas Hollingsworth, son of Thomas and grandson of Valentine, the emigrant, appears to have removed from Brandywine Hundred to Ohio about 1816 or '17. The Weldins were intimately connected with the Hollingsworths, at least in business and location.

The migration of Thomas seems to have been the beginning or cause of the removal of Isaac Weldin, his sister, Mrs. Smith, David Weldin, and others from Delaware to Eastern Ohio.

This movement of these families marks an epoch in their history. It seems that none of them ever returned and little was known of them for about ninety years. The tradition of the journey and some of the history of Isaac and David remained among the home folks. This was the condition when the writer began to make a more thorough search for this "lost tribe". By writing to every likely address given in the Directories of all western cities, we at last found a clue, by unraveling which ^{we} were able to establish the connection of the Eastern and Western branches. Isaac being twice married became the patriarch of a large family. His journey ended in Stark County, Ohio, and from this home his descendants have scattered across the country even as far as California where several of them reside.

Isaac and his first wife were the parents of four sons and six daughters, all of whom, except one, became the parents of families in their turn. After the death of his wife, he, after some years, married Rebecca Monahan. Of this marriage there were three sons, all of whom had families of their own. We have the record of sixty-eight grand children of Isaac who reside in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska and Oklahoma and whose children are very widely scattered.

+ The Bullocks are buried at St. John's, Concord, Penna.

Isaac was a man of force and character and seems to have handed down to his children a legacy of integrity and industry. There was not wanting in this branch, men for soldiers or sheriffs. Thomas, son of Isaac, figured in the Rebellion as manager of clearing or blockading the rivers as the authorities desired. Chalkley, a son, raised a Company of Militia in the troublesome times before the great war and was a volunteer in '61. Two sons of a daughter, Hannah, lost their lives in the war and several enginemen and conductors trace their descent from Isaac of Stark County, Ohio.

CHALKLEY T. WELDIN (154)

Chalkley, son of Isaac Weldin (33) was born in Ohio in 1821 and lived to be eighty-three years of age. He was described as a fine looking man, 5 ft. 11 inches in height; fair complexion, with blue eyes. At forty he was described as active and fine looking, having iron gray hair and a commanding appearance. This type has been quite common in the connection.

He learned the wheelwright trade in his youth. He served for twenty years as Deputy Sheriff in Ohio. Chalkley was military in his tastes and raised a Company of Militia at the call of Governor Todd, known as the "Squirrel Hunters". He enlisted in September 1861 in Company E, 38th Regiment, Ohio Volunteers and was a Sergeant. He was honorably discharged in '62 on account of disability, having contracted pneumonia. After recovery he served as Post wagon-master at Galitan, Tenn.

He married in 1844, Savilla Wilson. They resided in Columbiana County, Ohio, where their two children, Elizabeth E. and Franklin J. were born. After Savilla's death, he married and moved in 1872 to Kearney, Nebraska. Here he also served as deputy sheriff for eight years. He was well known as a veteran, and, becoming feeble in his later years, was admitted at about the age of eighty, to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home of Hall County, Nebraska. He died at the age of eighty-three and was buried under the auspices of the G.A.R. and the M.E. Church.

He was a brave and fearless man, well known and respected both in his native Ohio and his later Nebraska home.

From the Kearney Paper: -

"OBITUARY NOTICE

"A Brief Sketch of Mr. C.T. Weldin

Chalkley T. Weldin was born in Columbiana County, Ohio, October 8, 1821. There he lived from boyhood to manhood. Of about six feet in stature, of commanding appearance. He moved to Kearney, Nebraska in 1872. He was a brave soldier of the Civil War. He was Deputy Sheriff 20 years in Ohio and eight years in Kearney. He died March 6, 1904. He leaves a wife and his only daughter, Mrs. W. Parker of Topeka, Kansas, and one son, Mr. Frank Weldin of Bryan, Ohio. His request was to have sung at his grave "My hope is built on nothing less than Jesus' blood and righteousness: I dare not trust the sweetest frame, But wholly trust on Jesus' name. CHorus: On Christ, the solid rock I stand; All other ground is sinking sand."

"The funeral of Mr. Weldin took place Tuesday forenoon of last week at the family residence, North Avenue A, conducted by Rev. C.A. Mastin of the First M.E. Church, and under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic.

"Mr. Weldin was a member of an Ohio regiment, Co. E., 38th, and was Regimental Quartermaster of the same."

The subject of this sketch was born November 7, 1840 in the homestead in Brandywine Hundred, Delaware, where he now resides.

My father was George Weldin (41) son of Jacob Weldin (12). Although I was only three years old when my grandfather died in 1844, I distinctly remember him. He lived to be eighty-four years old.

He owned a large tract of land, 200 acres, which, at his death was bequeathed to my father and Isaac Weldin (39) father of Jacob R. Weldin (170), my father receiving the farm on which I live, and Jacob receiving the farm adjoining.

My grandfather, Jacob Weldin, built Shellpot School in 1798. His name is engraved on the gable end on a white stone built in the wall.

My father was a cabinet maker by trade, and was a very clever workman. We have in one of our rooms, a secretary made by him which is a work of art. He had a little shop where he worked at odd times. He also made coffins for many of his friends who required the services of an undertaker.

He died comparatively young, being only fifty-four years old. He left a family of five children of whom I was the youngest. My sisters, Mary, Sarah, Lydia and Rebecca lived on the farm until they married and went into homes of their own.

I was only ten years old when Father died and had at once to go to work on the farm to help my mother. My father at one time worked at the Garashee Powder Plant, now Eden Park. He met with an accident, caused by an explosion of powder, which resulted in the loss of one eye.

As I was my mother's only help, my schooling was very limited. I was permitted to go to school only in the winter and stay home all summer to work on the farm. This was practically all the schooling I received except one winter I attended a private school taught by T. Clarkson Taylor at 8th and Wollaston Streets, Wilmington, Del. Here I made rapid progress but had to leave school in the spring for active work on the farm. I remember trying to plow when I could scarcely manage the horses and hold the plow in the ground. But my neighbors were good to me and helped with the hardest jobs.

Among these neighbors were Joseph Miller, Martin Miller and George L. Miller. They have long since gone to their reward but I shall never forget their kindness.

I never had much time for recreation, but I remember when I was about twenty-five years of age, I had the privilege of going on a gunning and fishing trip down the Delaware Bay in company with Henry and Bayard Guest, Lee Weldin, Samuel Phillips, G. Monroe Weldin and John Grubb, of Zebbley's Corner. I am the only one of that party now living.

We hired a vessel from Marcus Hook, with a Mr. Pierce as Captain and Grover Locke, Mate. I went down to Henry Guest's in the afternoon and spent the time gunning on the farm until the vessel arrived about six o'clock in the evening. She anchored in front of the house and we all got into a little fishing boat and rowed out to her and clambered aboard. I had only a single, long barrel gun. As the others all had their double-barreled up-to-date guns, they were disposed to laugh at mine. We sailed down the river as far as the oyster beds below Bombay Hook, where we anchored until morning. Then we threw out grappling irons and d rifting the whole length of the oyster beds. Every little while we would drag them up and empty them on the deck, throw overboard the faulty ones and save the primes. We fished in this way for four hours and caught about 130 bushels of oysters. This was our main living for the week. We traded some off to other vessels for fish, ate all we could, and when we came home, we divided what was left among the crowd. Each one of us had thirteen bushels to bring home. I had to give two or three oyster suppers and call in my neighbors to get rid of them.

We also shot a few wild ducks. I never was much of a gunner. I remember firing my gun at a wild goose, high up over my head, and thought I struck him, as he wavered. Some one yelled "Look out where he falls" but Bayard sang out "He aint going to fall" and he didn't. We sold the ducks at Edgemoor Farm at Edgemoor, on our return.

As I was the youngest of the party, I was often the victim of many jokes, one of which I remember was this: Among the oysters we caught, was one enormous large one, the largest I had ever seen. I said I was going to keep that one and take it home to show the folks, so I slipped away from the others and hid it in what I considered a safe place. Imagine my surprise and chagrin when we landed and I went to get my oyster to find that some one had beaten me to it, cleaned out the oyster and neatly closed it up again, leaving me nothing but the shell. I found out afterwards that Henry Guest was the culprit. He had watched me hide it and had eaten it as a joke on me. Of course I was disappointed, but readily forgave him as I knew he did it for a joke.

When the Civil War broke out in 1861, the First Delaware Battery was formed under Captain Benjamin Nields, and was encamped in our woods. Many of my chums enlisted. I wanted to go with them, but was prevented by the fact that I was my mother's only helper and I could not leave her alone for their term of enlistment was three years. But I determined I would be in the war somewhere, so when the Fifth Delaware Regiment was formed, I enlisted in Company E. Captain Barry, with James C. McComb Colonel. We were assigned to Fort Delaware and along the Delaware and Chesapeake Canal. Our duty was to guard the rebel prisoners at the Fort, where, at one time we had about ten thousand. Our duties were arduous as we were constantly on guard or on police duty.

On February 22, 1866, I married Eliza J. Talley, daughter of Penrose R. Talley. To her, I owe more than I can tell. We had eleven children, three are in Heaven. Two children died Nov. 25, 1875; Bertha died June 15, 1909, and my wife died Dec. 27, 1909.

After my marriage I commenced farming on my own hook, but as I had no money to start with, I wanted to sell my property here and go west where land was cheap. My wife was so opposed to it, that in deference to her wishes, I gave it up. I since think that she was right. God has signally blessed and prospered me, and I am convinced that I should remain on the farm until He calls me Home.

I was converted when I was about fifteen years old, under the labors of Henry R. Calloway, in the fall of 1856. I united with Mt. Pleasant M.E. Church Feb. 6, 1857. There was a great revival in the Church at that time. I was deeply convicted of my sins, and earnestly sought the Lord around the Altar for three nights, but was finally converted at my home. I never lost my first love, but after ten years I was deeply convicted for Holiness. I felt I must be cleansed from all inbred sin, to love God with all my heart. In 1868 I went to the Manheim National Holiness Camp Meeting, held at Manheim, Pa., in company with Mrs. Rebecca Miller, of precious memory, and Mrs. Turner. There on July 24, 1868, at the evening service, I went to the Altar as a seeker, but in the act of kneeling, the power of God came upon me in a wonderful manner. In a moment I was filled with the Holy Ghost, and joy unspeakable. I am still living in the enjoyment of that wonderful blessing. Glory to God!

(S) George W. Weldin

After alienation by sale from the Weldin family, of Brandywine Hundred; for over 200 years, a tract of approximately 100 acres of farm land, in the hundred, part of the original section of land received from Penn's agent by Jacob Weldon, who was born before 1700, has been repurchased by the family.

The transfer of the property, lying south of Weldin Road and Carr road and extending from Mattison's Run to Shellpot Creek, back to the Weldin family, was just recently completed. Jacob Weldon bought the original tract of 200 acres from Thomas Hollingsworth, agent of William Penn, for 30 pounds, about 85 cents an acre, in 1722. The property is now valued at nearly $1,000 an acre.

The larger portion of the property, east of the Concord Pike, near Blue Ball, has been in continuous possession of the family for nearly 250 years.

The first Jacob Weldon was a well-known Brandywine Hundred smith, and the second Jacob Weldon, born in 1760, conducted, for some years, the old Shellpot school, a long, low stone building, which can now be seen, standing vacant, at the intersection of Shipley and Talley Roads. The George Weldon who was born in 1796 was a well-known Brandywine Hundred cabinet maker. At one time he made nearly all the coffins used in Brandywine Hundred. He also made some fine furniture, and the Weldins now have a beautiful mahogany table, a birds-eye-maple secretary and other articles made by him.

In Old King's Chapel, Boston, a copy of Governor Bailey's letter to the Countess of Lincoln is found with a date in February, 1630. It states: "amongst others, one who dyed about this time was Mr. Robert Weldon, who in the time of his sickness, we had chosen to be captain of 100 foot, but before he took possession of his place, he dyed, the 13th of this February and was buried as a soldier should with three volleys of shott." According to an entry in "King's Dictionary of Boston," Captain Robert Weldon was buried on February 18, 1630, "a hopeful younge gent and an experienced soldier dyed at Charlestown," the entry states. This was the first burial in Old King's Chapel, Boston and was recorded, but not marked, because of fear of Indians destroying it.

George W. Weldin, 94 years old, of Blue Ball, sole Civil War veteran living in Brandywine Hundred and former commander of the Delaware G. A. R., life-long Brandywine Hundred farmer and occasional supply preacher, died at 4 o'clock this morning in the house in which he was born. Mr. Weldin came from one of the oldest families in Brandywine Hundred, and the farm on which he spent most of his life has been in possession of the family for more than 200 years...

Mr. Weldin was a founder and life-long member of the old Mt. Pleasant Church and served as president of the board of trustees for many years. In 1871 he was licensed a local preacher and acted as supply pastor at Chester Bethel Church and other Methodist Episcopal Churches.

The Weldin farm was originally acquired in 1722 from Thomas Hollingsworth, agent of William Penn, for about 85 cents an acre.

The funeral will be held 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at Newark Union Church, Weldin Road, and interment will be in Newark Union Cemetery. The Rev. Vinel E. Hillis will have charge of the services, and will be assisted by the Rev. Hugh B. Kelso, of Pocomoke City, Md., and the Rev. Charles Harris, of East Lake M. E. Church, this city. The G. A. R. and the Sons of Union Veterans and members of other veteran's organizations will also conduct services.

"Jacob Weldin, yoeman, of Brandywine Hundred to Joseph Weldin of the same place, and son of the said Jacob, in consideration of the natural affection which he has and beareth toward his said son Joseph, and for the better maintenance of him in this world, and as well as for the consideration of the sum of five shillings, money of this Government".

The description is of a part of a tract of marsh commonly called "Treaty Hook" or "Cherry Island Marsh" which Jacob bought from Thos. Hollingsworth, Nov. 20, 1722.

Another tract, 100 acres of Upland conveyed in the same deed to Jacob, he in Feb. 22, 1760 by a deed to Isaac, with the consideration in similar language. This is the proof that Isaac No. 2 and Joseph No. 3 were brothers.

Thos. Hollingsworth to Jacob Weldin, Nov. 20, 1722, Rec. Vol. G. p. 197

William Weldon, Jr., to John Mathews M-3-557 1812, in Appaquinamink Hundred, Wife, Nancy; Witnesses , John, Joseph and Abraham Weldon.

$322,500 IS PAID TO SAVE "LUTTRELL PSALTER"
AND
"BEDFORD HOURS" FOR THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

London, July 29, 1929.

The Luttrell Psalter, one of the most finely illuminated manuscripts in English, was withdrawn from the Sotheby's auction block this afternoon with the announcement that it had been privately bought for the British Museum, where it has rested for thirty years. The price paid, $157,500, was lent, interest free, to the British Museum, it is thought, by the Messrs. Quaritch, who "felt it was only right that the Psalter should remain in England."

Had it been placed on the auction block it would probably have brought $250,000.

With its withdrawal, interest centered on the "Bedford Book of Hours" which went to Messrs. Quaritch, for $165,000. This almost equally as famous an English manuscript will also be held for the British Museum by the purchasers, as soon as the price paid today can be raised. No interest will be charged, as the Messrs. Quaritch are anxious that this volume also remain in England.

The chief American bidder was Gabriel Wells of New York, who stayed to $140,000, during excited bidding from all parts of the room. It started at $25,000.

The Luttrell Psalter was the property of Mrs. Alfred Noyes, wife of the poet who inherited it from her grandfather, Sir Frederick Weldin, to whose family both the Luttrell and Bedford had belonged since the seventeenth century.

The Luttrell Psalter is one of the most lavishly decorated manuscripts existing. It is famous for the marginal drawings illustrating the life and customs of medieval England, and was executed in 1340 for Sir Geoffrey Luttrell of Lenham, Lincolnshire.

The book contains 309 leaves and is illuminated in colors and gold. It is understood that a public appeal for a fund will be made by the British Museum, which has a year in which to pay.
